

The Caring Fairies have returned to Orange County and Mission Viejo's Potocki Center for the Arts for the holidays! Lily, Queen of the Fairies, and her community of fairy friends fell in love with the beautiful oaks, sycamores, butterfly garden, plant maze and rolling hills. The area reminds them of their homes in Ireland, and they found something magical and mysterious about the parkland.

The fairies sleep during the day and bring the trail to life after twilight. If you listen closely at night, you can hear the fairies singing, dancing and laughing. Many love to explore the creek and beautiful art along the trail. Although they are somewhat shy around their human friends, when together at night, they are very social.

Some of their favorite activities are having s'mores by the bonfire, chasing shooting stars, painting the wildflowers, decorating their fairy homes, reading books to each other, gardening, listening to cricket symphonies and writing letters. We've heard there are even a few wandering trolls living with the fairies along the trail, so keep an eye out during your visit. The trolls can hear how much fun the fairies are having, so don't be surprised if you run into them, and remember, don't feed the trolls!

ABOUT THE OSO CREEK TRAIL

The Oso Creek Trail naturally flows from north of the Santa Ana Mountains and joins the Trabuco Creek before ultimately flowing to the Pacific Ocean. While walking along the creek, you can explore different points of interest like the character garden, plant maze, butterfly garden, peace obelisk and more. This trail is gorgeous and your kids will love exploring and seeing all kinds of plants and animals including rabbits, lizards, butterflies and birds. At the end of your walk, don't forget to stop by Oso Viejo Community Park for some extra fun.
